

Meanwhile at the vet's...

Petable.

Red the Dog and Smudge the Cat are feeling under the weather. Fortunately, vets now have access to the same unique CellaVision technology as physicians do. This brings the same advantages to veterinary medicine that human medicine has enjoyed for many years: an automated and simplified process of performing blood differentials.

CellaVision Vet because you can teach an old dog new tricks.

Look out for the next issue in June.